“Adverse Maternal, Newborn, and Child Health Outcomes From Household Air Pollution Exposures”

Learning Objectives:

The presentation will describe the exposures to household air pollution and their impacts on maternal and child health and pregnancy outcomes. The health burden from high exposures to particulate matter and carbon monoxide from both ambient and household sources is most notable in lower and middle income countries. Behaviors that drive exposures to air pollution are complex, and this presentation will describe innovative programs aiming to reduce these exposures.
