September 26, 2017

8:00 AM

“Pregnancy: A Continuing Source of Sorrow and Pain for Women in Sub-Saharan Africa”

Learning Objectives:

People in the western world are well aware of the high maternal mortality rate in Sub-Saharan Africa but do not understand the factors that are responsible for this. The lecture is designed to give a well-informed in-sight into why pregnant women in this region die as a result of pregnancy. At the end of the lecture, those in attendance will now appreciate why hemorrhage and other factors lead to death in the region
